DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 2-4 and 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

3. Claims 2 and 12 are indefinite because they do not appear to further limit the subject matter of independent claims 1 and 11, respectively. The claims are redundant and should be canceled or amended to further limit the parent claim. Correction or clarification is required.

4. Claim 2 recites the limitation "said output control device" in lines 1-2 and 3-4. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claims 3-4 and 13-14 are also rejected due to the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1-2, 5-7, 9-12, and 15-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Heimann (U.S. Patent No. 5,357,146).

In reference to claim 1, Heimann discloses in Figure 1 a processor clock control device (20) operable to control switching between clock signals input to a processor (not shown, but disclosed in column 1, lines 39-41) said processor clock control device comprising: at least two clock signal inputs each operable to receive a clock signal, said clock signals comprising a first (CLK0) and a second (CLK1) clock signal; a sensor (36) operable to sense the first and the second clock signals; a clock signal output (OUT) operable to output a clock signal for input to a processor; and a clock switching signal input for receiving a switching signal (SELECT) operable to control switching of the clock signal output from the first clock signal to the second clock signal; wherein the processor clock control device is operable on receipt of the switching signal to sense the first clock signal and when the first clock signal transitions from a first predetermined level to a second level, the processor clock control device is operable to hold the clock signal output at the second level, and then to sense the second clock signal and when the second clock signal transitions from the first predetermined level to the second level to output the second clock signal (see Abstract and the Detailed Description of Figure 1). The same applies to claims 2 and 10-12.

In reference to claim 5 Heimann discloses in Figure 1 wherein the clock switching signal input further comprises logic (22, 24, 26, 28) operable to inhibit forwarding of the received clock switching signal (SELECT) to the processor clock control device until the first clock signal (CLK0) reaches the first predetermined level (see column 3, line 61-column 4, line 21). The same applies to claim 15.

In reference to claim 6 Heimann discloses in Figure 1 wherein the logic (22, 24, 26, 28) operable to inhibit forwarding of the received clock switching signal to the processor clock control device comprises a register (this is seen as the flip-flops) that is clocked by the first clock signal at the first predetermined level.

In reference to claim 7 Heimann discloses in Figure 1 wherein following receipt of a clock switching signal (SELECT) the clock switching signal input is inhibited from receiving further signals until the processor clock control device outputs the second clock signal (CLK1), see column 3, lines 7-29. The same applies to claim 16.

In reference to claim 9, Heimann discloses in column 5, lines 1-5 that the circuit may comprise a further clock signal input.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. Claims 3-4 and 13-14 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Claims 3-4 and 13-14 would be allowable because the closest prior art of record fails to disclose a circuit as shown in Figure 9 wherein the device further comprises a further clock switching signal input operable to receive a further switching signal (LAUNCH) in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claims and any intervening claims. Claim 8 would be allowable because the closest prior art of record fails to disclose a circuit as shown in Figure 5 wherein the device comprises a plurality of set/reset flip flops (A-H) in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claims and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
